LIBRARY:

- Donation of Turtle Island painting: There's something new on the third floor! "Turtle Island" was donated by Maynard resident, art educator, and member of the Mashpee Wampanoag tribe Aimeé Ledwell. In collaboration with Maynard Anti-Racism Alliance and the greater Maynard community, Aimeé created this large-scale artwork featuring an image of Turtle Island, a term used by many Native Americans to describe North America. Four canvases were used to represent the four directions. Many hands helped paint the image, most of them local children. The library is honored to be the home of this community creation.

- Community survey results: We received an excellent response to the community survey, with over 450 people of all ages participating. This exceeded our goal and will make our new strategic plan that much stronger and more relevant. The Strategic Planning Team has read through every response, and the input gathered is being incorporated into the plan we are now drafting.
- Service on community committees: Library Director Jean Maguire is serving on the ArtSpace Executive Director Search Committee, Cultural District Working Group, Emerson Health Mental Health Work Group, First Connections Advisory Council, and Minuteman Library Network Finance Committee.
